Bulloch County Can Win $2,000 In Forestry Contest.

Bulloch county has a good chance at some of the $2,000 prize money put up for the "Keep Georgia Green" contest by J. W. Roberts, county forest ranger, stated to the Ogeechee Farm Bureau Tuesday night.

Mr. Roberts stated that the Georgia Forestry Association had put up the state prize money and that some of the local men interested in timber had put up right money for a county contest. He asked the local Farm Bureau chapters to compete with each other on their efforts to control wild fires and encourage better forestry practices for the money put up by the business men.

J. R. Kelly, Ogeechee president, asked James Hagan to be prepared to tell the group in February how he grew more than a ton of peanuts per acre last year. He also stated that he would try to have the average yields of the various crops grown there available to discuss as well as the area on a map of the lands in timber and the conservation practices now being carried out.

The group voted to make an effort to group their fertilizer order for this year. Mr. Kelly asked J. A. Hart, Robert Clarke, C. W. Zetterover, and W. L. Zetterover, Jr. to work with him a committee to procure prices on fertilizer in a large quantity and stated that when the prices were procured they would contact the members individually for orders.

BEFORE—Here is what Frank Rushing began with when he purchased the Riggs Old Mill Pond and the home on it, back in 1917. He does not know who the people are shown standing on the front porch. The cut was made from an old photograph which Mr. Rushing had copied.

NOW—Here is what Frank Rushing has done to the house shown above. He moved the old house 200 yards and went to work on it. This is how far he has gone, with much more to be done. He invites citizens of Bulloch county to see it.

Camellias Go On Show

Camellia growers and fanciers will be given an opportunity to show off their favorite camellia blooms on Friday, January 23, at the Bulloch County Library, where the Statesboro Civic Garden Club holds its Camellia Show.

The show will be open from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

The exhibits will be in three divisions: 1. Specimen blooms. 2. Collections of five to ten different varieties in trays. 3. Arrangements. Specimen blooms will be judged under the following classifications: 1. Single. 2. Semi-double. 3. Incomplete double. 4. Complete double.

Seedlings of all varieties will be judged as one class and camellias grown under glass will be judged as one class.

Arrangements may be made under the following classifications: 1. In the elegant manner. 2. With bold or striking foliage for the modern home. 3. "As you like it" arrangement, with no restrictions.

In combination with the camellia show there will be a "Camellia in Art" exhibit. This is a non-competitive exhibit in which local artists are invited to display original paintings in oil, watercolor or other medium.

Entries for the show will be received from 8 a. m. to 12 a. m. on Friday, January 30. Everyone is invited to enter a bloom or arrangements and to attend the show in the afternoon or evening.

Chairman for the show are: Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. Roger Holland.

Riggs Old Mill And Home Get New Look

For twenty years he dreamed of it. For twenty years he kept it in his mind.

For twenty years he wanted to call it "his own and surround it with the beauty it deserved."

Then five years ago the dream began taking on the attributes of reality.

And as the months passed the dream turned from something nebulous into something tangible and substantial.

And today there stands the framework of something to be beautiful.

In 1917 Frank Rushing bought the Riggs Old Mill including 500 acres of land in the tract and more than 600 acres in the pond with water rights.

Then began the slow painful process of restoring the pond to the old home.

The pond dam had broken and the pond was unkept. The house was in bad shape and in need of repair.

With little help Frank Rushing built a new dam, a new spillway and now the pond has a good head of water and people from all over go there to fish—and pay for the privileges. On Lotts Creek the Riggs Old Mill is staging a comeback and regaining its reputation as the best fishpond in the country.

In 1947 Frank moved the old Riggs Home more than 200 yards from its original site to its present location nearer the pond dam.

There it now sits in middle stages of renovation.

More than 100 years old the house has lost its original look (as shown in the above photograph) as Frank tore away the porch and erected stately columns.

He relocated the stairs inside. He preserved the 11 inch boards in the ceilings and walls. He built a large brick fireplace in the living room. He refinished the modern plumbing and electric lights. He's spent hours and hours finishing off the floors, pulling thousands of tacks from the walls. He's erected a tiny balcony on the second floor with wrought iron railings.

He's set out 60 camellias and 50 azaleas, with more to go into the ground.

Today his living room presents a great contrast to the parlor of former days. There's a beautiful grand piano there. A television set graces one corner. A record-player-radio in another. Two ancient rifles hang over the open fireplace.

And there's more to be done.

And he's doing it all by himself.

Frank acquired the place from the Tommy Rushing Estate. In its day the mill was the site of a cotton gin, saw mill, grist mill.

'What Is It?' They Ask As Things Go Cockeyed In House Out On US 301

Bulloch county is the place of progress and one that is always keeping the news. Something is always happening in Bulloch county and one never knows what will be the next thing to bring the nation's attention to Bulloch. And it has happened again!

When Billie Carr and Ann Recker opened their new business out on U. S. Highway 301 South, known as "LITTLE ANN'S," they did not realize that the building space was too small. It was so long before they found out. So they built a small building a short distance to the rear which they were going to use for storage space when the need became apparent. But when the time arrived for them to use the additional space for their business, they made a strange discovery—it could not be used for storage or any like purpose.

Something had happened to the building! Things just didn't seem right inside. They found it was impossible to stand erect; a person seemed to be pulled by some strange force of gravity. A person became light on one's feet—could barely get high almost as easily or walking down stairs. And they imagine their surprise when they saw real objects rolling uphill!

They were so fascinated with the strange sensation they tried throwing a ball away from their bodies. What happened? The ball came right back to them! They were just going into the air it would not come straight down, but would curve and fall a distance from where it was thrown. It was too much for them, so they sat down to try to figure it out, but can you imagine where they sat? On the side of the wall!

All this sounds strange and mysterious. But that is what happened to Billie and Ann when they tried to use the house originally built for a storage space. So they had to discard the storage idea but they are still puzzled by the phenomenon.

The thought occurred to Billie and Ann that there must be a lot of people who wouldn't believe such a thing, so they are opening it up for the public to see. If you don't think it isn't something that Bulloch county has never seen before just go out and see for yourself. You'll never feel like the same person again.

Many theories have been advanced as to reason for such a mysterious and puzzling sensation, but no one has satisfactorily explained it. They would welcome an explanation.

Mr. Porras was presented to the Rotary Club, together with other Costa Rican educators, by Dr. Martin Pittman, who is escorting the group on a tour of eight states in the U. S. observing and studying the educational system of this country.

Mr. Porras was recently honored by the Rotary Club of San Jose for his outstanding work in education in Costa Rica.

Others of the group speaking briefly were: Mr. Isaac Amorita, head of all the high schools in Costa Rica; and Mr. Rafael Cortes, director of primary schools in Costa Rica.

The group sang a native song for the Rotarians, accompanied by Mrs. Roger Holland.

'Protect Your Rear' Say JC's In Safety Campaign

Statesboro automobile owners will get the opportunity of the year, beginning Friday, January 23.

The local Jaycees will begin a "Protect Your Rear" sales campaign, and for the sake of your automobile you don't want to miss a chance to get in on this part of the Jaycee Safety program.

"Lite-A-Bumper" is another way to put it. But anyway you put it the idea and the product that the Jaycees are going to sell is a good "bet" and a bargain.

There are a few cars already equipped with the "Lite-A-Bumper" tape and if you have seen it, you will want it. At night the rear of your car can be seen a mile away if you are protected with the "SCOTCH-LITE" tape that the Jaycees are going to sell. There is no trouble for you. Just $1.00 will buy the tape and the Jaycees will put it on for you.

The reflector tape is one of the best ways to "protect your rear." Don't miss the opportunity. If you are not contacted by a Jaycee, call one and have this tape put on your car.

We Need A Uniform Traffic Code

AS THIS is being written a bill is being introduced in the House of Representatives of the Georgia General Assembly in Atlanta.

The bill would authorize the adoption of a uniform traffic code which will bring up to date Georgia's antiquated, hazy, often confusing traffic laws and will provide the essential means of reducing highway accidents in our state.

The bill would give the director and members of the State Highway Patrol the authority to order inspection of a vehicle at any time. The director "in his discretion" could require every motor vehicle to be inspected once a year. Conviction for drunken driving would be punishable by 10 days to 12 months imprisonment or a fine of $100 to $200 or both. For a third or subsequent conviction, the sentence would be imprisonment for 90 days to 12 months and, in the discretion of the court, a fine up to $1000.

The State Patrol could revoke a driver's license for any conviction, but revocation upon a third conviction.

The bill also covers stopping and turning, parking, signaling, lights, and operation of bicycles, motorcycles and scooters, and movements of pedestrians.

Enforcement officers have been handicapped by attempting to enforce reckless driving laws which were held by the Georgia Supreme Court as being "too vague and indefinite" for the last 15 years. And, the officers contended, reckless driving has caused the majority of all accidents, deaths and injuries during that time.

In the proposed uniform code, the various forms of reckless driving clearly defined. The code also sets forth clear-cut regulations for bicycle riders. Sections prohibit one truck following another at a distance less than 200 yards. Another section bans the operation of a motor vehicle at a speed so low that it constitutes a traffic block and hazard.

The passage of this uniform safety code has the backing of the Georgia Peace Officers' Association, the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Georgia Parent-Teachers Association, and many other civic organizations.

Thirty-three states, including Florida and Alabama, have already adopted the code.

And now Georgia has the opportunity to move to the front in promoting safety for the people who use our highways.

We hope by the time this is published the bill will have been passed.

For More Safety

"NO OWNER shall permit livestock to run at large or to stray upon the public roads of this state."

The bill is that simple.

It is one of the highway safety measures Georgia legislators are now considering which would make the fencing in of livestock mandatory throughout the state.

It is House Bill No. 24, introduced by representatives John Bell of Richmond County, William Key of Jasper, and our neighbor Walter Harrison of Jenkins.

The bill would make the owner of the livestock liable for damages resulting from an accident caused by the livestock on the highway.

Under the present rules the responsibility is on the motorist, not only to try to avoid hitting the animal, but to assume the burden of the damages, even those to the cow, hog, goat, horse, mule, or chicken hit.

More important, however, is the saving of human lives. Each year livestock-at-large adds to the toll of injured and dead on our highways.

Livestock in our county has become such a valuable asset that most of the owners have gone to a lot of expense to protect their cattle and hogs within fences.

But Bulloch County is still one of the 30 counties which has not taken advantage of the local option method of ruling out the open range.

We hope the General Assembly enacts this statewide livestock fence bill.

Enacted and enforced, it will remove a major traffic hazard.

They Found Us Wonderful

"IN BEHALF of us we are in great debt and want to express thanks to all citizens, to Mr. Mayor, and all people who make our stay here a memorable one."

And the group, with Dr. Marvin Pittman, left on their way to complete a five week tour of the U. S. before returning to Costa Rica, their home country.

It was Mr. Joaquin Vargas of San Jose, Costa Rica, Central America, speaking for his countrymen at the Monday meeting of the Statesboro Rotary Club.

They spent three days here as the guests of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

They found the city of Statesboro beautiful.

They found the citizens of this community wonderful.

It's good for us to have our neighbors visit us.

Up She Goes Again

WE HAVE been so busy tossing up our hat over the accomplishments of our friends and neighbors here in Statesboro and Bulloch County that we've hardly had the time for throwing it up for our friends and neighbors up in Atlanta.

But this week we got around to throwing our hat high into the air over the promotion that came to Jack Tarver the latter part of 1952.

Jack, who owes to us most of what he knows about the complicated business of putting a weekly newspaper together, was made general manager of the corporation which publishes The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal.

I guess we call him Mr. Tarver now.

Mr. Tarver was working on the Vidalia Advance when we first knew him back in 1937-38. He later established the Toombs County Democrat at Lyons. In 1940 he joined the Macon News, to become editor in 1941. It was in 1943 that he went big-time and joined the Constitution as associate editor. Then in 1950 he became assistant to the president of the Atlanta Newspapers, Inc. when the two papers merged.

And now he's general manager of the two great Georgia Newspapers.

Congratulations, Mr. Tarver.

Still Working At It

THE MAYOR and City Council are taking another step in their determination to do something to try to work out the traffic problem as it affects Statesboro.

First, an additional policeman was added to the police force.

Then the police were instructed to go about their duty and make cases against all citizens who violate our city traffic ordinances.

Then, in a conference last week, the police were told that they would be backed up in the weekly Mayor's Court, and the City Engineer was authorized to paint certain street curbing yellow indicating restricted zones.

Now comes the announcement that this weekend there will be six traffic engineers in Statesboro to study, observe, and make recommendations to the City Council on what more can be done to help solve our increasing traffic problems.

The Mayor and Council asked the County Representatives to request these engineers from the State Highway Department, and it was done.

We believe that our city authorities are doing a good job. If we, the citizens of Statesboro who use our streets, will give our understanding and cooperation, we'll see the problem licked, and the streets of Statesboro safe for all, and the operation of a motor car here a pleasure.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Dr. Pittman is now in the U. S. and will be back in five weeks. This letter is one he wrote back in December following a trip up into the northern section of Costa Rica.

IN COSTA RICA'S "FAR NORTH"

Tonight I am at Liberia, the town at the north in Costa Rica. It is rather near Nicaragua Lake through which Uncle Sam has long contemplated another canal route to the Pacific.

To get here, I had to take an airplane since there are no suitable roads from San Jose which is 225 kilometers south of here. The northern extension of the Pan-American Highway is being built up this way and should reach the Nicaraguan border within another year or two. Fortunately for me and others who desire to come to this place, The Almighty had this problem in mind many years ago and, therefore, prepared LIMITLESS highways far above the mountains and the clouds, ready for man's feet to follow.

And he found the proper ways to use them.

We arose at 4 a. m. so that I could be at the Airport by five o'clock. While I made myself "beautiful," Mrs. P. prepared my toast, prunes, soft boiled eggs and milk and BUTTER PICK. This was a wise provision, I discovered later. Our plane "took off" at 5:30 on the dot in "the dawn's early light."

I had postponed this particular trip for the closing one of my "once over" visits to the high schools and the Normal Schools, waiting for the coming of the dry season which has just begun. It rains daily, so I am told, from about March 1 to the first of December and then for three months the sun shine is equally reliable.

It was a beautiful and delightful voyage. The early morning sunlight bathed the mountain tops with a beautiful golden glow shortly after we left San Jose. The mountain tops were clear but the

When we came out of the plane, I saw a jeep rushing down across the pasture in my direction. A tall red-headed young fellow running over to me and asking if I were "Mr. Brown." "No, I said, my name

Editor's Uneasy Chair

This week something new has been added—rather something has been let out of the bag—the character behind the big "E" of Editor's Uneasy Chair, up above. He's been here all the while but this is the first time we've allowed him out for all to see.

Oh, come now, you recognize the big nose—the high forehead—the pipe—the uneasy chair there?

Why, that's your editor.

You know—the man at the newspaper office with that far-away look in his eyes.

The man who expects to see with his brow furrowed in deep thought, sitting at the typewriter, writing word-shaking editorials, but you find him in the back of the printing shop, his hands black with the ink of last week's paper.

The man you expect to see dressed in a neat, conservative suit, sitting at a big glass-topped desk, but you find him bent over a dirty slab of stone in the back of the shop, wearing an apron, stiff with the ink of a dozen issues of the newspaper.

The man with a thousand things to do and only until Thursday morning to get them done, who will come up front and sit down and listen to and talk to anyone who comes in—just to talk for a little while.

That's your editor as seen by George Parrish Jr. He did the drawing one day while he was in our office when he was working on the college paper, The Georgian.

We kept it on our desk and tried to lose it. But it kept coming up to the top of the pile of stuff that accumulates on editor's desks, until this week when we expose it for all to see.

George is the son of George Parrish, for 23 years head of a bank at Jessup, Ga., and the grandson of Mrs. H. S. Parrish of Statesboro. He is now in the army and is stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C. His cartoons were a feature of the Georgian-Ant last year.

TO TV OWNERS—WBMR-TV, Jacksonville, expects to increase their TV broadcast power from 14,800 watts to 100,000 watts on or before April 15. We got this word direct from Glenn Marshall Jr., General Manager of the station.

There's still a war going on in Korea. We got the word from Headquarters Georgia Military District, Atlanta, that 129 Georgia boys arrived at Seattle Port of Embarkation from the Far East January 16.

And Bulloch County has a big part in that war—there are 451 Bulloch county boys in the Armed Forces of the United States. We got this word direct from the Treasury Department which is hoping every citizen in Bulloch county will buy just ONE $18.75 bond.

U. S. Defense Bonds during 1952.

On Christmas morning the little girls were joyous over their birds dolls Christmas afternoon, however, found the dress and bouquet designers cringing over the use that was being made of their works of art. It seems that the little nieces had rearranged the costumes entirely, tying the sashes of another dress over the white satin wedding dress and draping old shawls over the heads of the dolls. The lovely bride bouquets were being used as the bride's hair.

The Doll Show, as we stated at the beginning, was a sight. Seeing all the clean, pressed, and perfectly groomed dolls was a surprise to us. We wanted to follow each doll home and observe it for a couple of days. Or would it be more interesting to have another doll show, a show in which every little girl would be compelled to bring her doll exactly as it happened to be dressed at the moment. Then the Judges would have fun, eh?

Dolls-Dolls-Dolls

There Were Many, Many Dolls

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL

The recent doll show at the Recreation Center was a sight to see. There were big dolls, little dolls, pretty dolls, ugly dolls, old dolls, dressed-up dolls, costume dolls, foreign dolls, dancing dolls, family dolls, Toni dolls, Bonnie dolls, dolls, Saucy Walker dolls. Anyhow, there were dolls.

Seeing each little girl who was entering her doll made us feel a little sad. Each one knew her doll ought to win a prize. It made us remember that we would never enter one of our real babies in a baby show because we already knew our baby was the finest to be found. We felt that the Judges for such contests might not have as good taste or as much love for the appreciation of the finest as we enter our baby?

We wanted so much to go around at the Doll Show and pat every little child on the head and assure her that her baby was the finest to her and that was all that mattered.

Seeing all these dolls so properly and primly dressed started us. We remembered the inexpensive version of the Toni doll which Claus had left at our house this Christmas. She was very beautiful dressed on Christmas morning. By nightfall she was wearing a nightgown. Mrs. Santa had made for the antique doll (our doll when we were young) which is four times the size of the Toni. The antique doll was wearing a nightgown and a kerchief—sawing style. Another doll from another year was dressed in cowboy boots and hat but with a babyish style dress. Still another was wearing a skirt made by the six-year-old. This skirt was an imitation straw skirt made from a half-woven pot holder (made of stock loops). Upon viewing this ill-assorted apparel, we wondered if all little girls were alike, or if there were some who kept their doll family in apple order.

Mrs. Bruce, who teaches in the Lab School, told us of an experience she had with her two-year-old son. He was wearing a nightgown and a kerchief—sawing style. Another doll from another year was dressed in cowboy boots and hat but with a babyish style dress. Still another was wearing a skirt made by the six-year-old. This skirt was an imitation straw skirt made from a half-woven pot holder (made of stock loops). Upon viewing this ill-assorted apparel, we wondered if all little girls were alike, or if there were some who kept their doll family in apple order.

Mrs. Bruce, who teaches in the Lab School, told us of an experience she had with her two-year-old son. He was wearing a nightgown and a kerchief—sawing style. Brooklet News Sixth and Seventh Grades Present Program Directed by Mrs. Mary Watson

By Mrs. John A. Robertson

Last Friday at the chapel and the pupils of the sixth and seventh grades presented an interesting program, directed by their teacher, Mrs. Mary Watson. The devotional was read by Bob Brooks, and Henry Waters announced the characters in the play, "Foot's Nightmare." Taking part in the play were Carlyle Lanier, Rinnie Griffith, Beverly McCormick, Juanita Deal, Stuart Jonnett, Happy Anderson, Jerome Jones, and Ann Strozio.

Thursday the members of the 11th and 12th grades went to Savannah to see the exhibit of Industrial Progress, that was put on at the Killworth House, sponsored by the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, in Dearborn, Michigan.

The students were accompanied by Mrs. Hamp Smith, J. S. Mikesell, and R. R. Bragg, and Lamar Nesmith.

Friday afternoon the members of the Blackstone Sunday School class met at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Hamp Smith, and held their January business meeting.

Mrs. E. E. Proctor of Millen spent last week with her sister, Mrs. C. S. Cromley. Mrs. D. E. Smith and little son of Savannah were guests here for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Bryan.

Rev. W. H. Ansley, Mrs. Ansley, Mrs. W. C. Cromley, and Mrs. W. B. Parrish attended the Methodist Conference that was held at the Hagan Methodist Church last Thursday.

Petty Offices and Mrs. Z. T. Waters and little daughter of Dallas, Texas, spent several days here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Roberts en route to his new assignment at Boston, Mass.

Dr. Ashmore Talks At T. C. Lab High

Dr. A. L. Ashmore, of Georgia Teachers College, gave a most interesting discussion at the Laboratory School P.T.A. meeting on Thursday night, January 8. The topic was "We See Vocational and Economic Security." During the discussion, Dr. Ashmore recommended that, as parents and teachers, one might render excellent guidance to our youth in their vocational needs but the final decision should be their own. He enlarged upon four questions of great concern in such a guidance program.

1. Will the job lead to personal happiness? Will it be one I will really enjoy?

2. Do I have talent or ability to do this job? Will it challenge my talent or ability?

3. Does this job contribute to the service of the community?

4. Does the job earn me a decent living?

At the regular meeting of the West Side P.T.A. last week Dr. Henry Ashmore was the speaker. Mrs. Chester gave the devotional. A report was made stating that the playground equipment has been repaired and that the playground has been furnished.

A social hour followed the meeting.

ALL'S FAIR

By JANE

You'd think there would be a holl in the news after Christmas, but there are events that are not resisters of time. For instance, here's a note I received dated Jan. 15, from Mrs. H. H. Ormeyer, 3514 Martha Custis Drive, Alexandria, Va. Here are some excerpts from her note:

"Our little son arrived at 8:45 a. m. on Jan. 7, 1953. He weighed 7 pounds 6 ounces at birth and is just the sweetest, cutest baby. We named him William Sheppard. William after his paternal grandfather and Sheppard after my Dad."

"It has been so wonderful having mother (Mrs. E. S. Lewis) with us. She certainly knows how to keep our little boy happy and we're enjoying her very much."

"Homer is trying to sign her up for a long contract with us."

"Sincerely, Mrs. Frederick Ormeyer."

Mrs. Ormeyer is the former Miss Sybil Lewis of Statesboro.

Our girls are scattered to all parts of the world but Virginia and Washington, D. C. lead probably in our hometown girls.

MRS. BAKER WILLIAMS (Mary Jones Kennedy) and her husband, Major Baker Williams, one-time athletic coach at Statesboro High are living at Langley Field, Va., where Baker heads the Weather Bureau Station. Major Williams is taking on extra military duties as he coaches basketball at the field. Mary Jones gets a thrill watching from the side lines. As one of the ranking officers wives, protocol calls for formal dress at proper social functions, so it was with much reluctance that she began her tour of the smart shops. Baker is envied by many of his fellow officers because of his smart socks that Mary Jones knits for her husband.

CAMELLIA GROWERS need to watch your prettiest blooms. Protect them from the cold. The Civic Garden Club is sponsoring a camellia show Friday, Jan. 30, at the Bulloch County Library from 2 until 9 p. m. Anyone is eligible to enter. If you do not have specimen blooms, any unusual blooms will be acceptable. From all accounts, Mrs. C. E. Cone will have an entry of that type. Mrs. Cone bought three plants that are as yet unnamed. They are a lovely shade of pink with seven stamens and have bloomed profusely.

THERE'S A CUTE BLOND working not to far from the Post Office who expects a letter every day from her boy friend in service. Recently she received four in one day. A World War I veteran remarked that no soldier had time to write girls that often.

WILL SIMMONS is one of the lucky ones. A senior in High School, he has already received his graduation gift, a yellow and black deluxe Buick. Yes, his mother, Mrs. Oscar (Putt) Simmons called up her brother, Hoke Brunson and that was all there was to it. Except, of course, Louise's signature on the check.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in my life I have read a London Daily or rather a portion of a page. It comes from Mrs. Dick Bowman who with Lt. Bowman and their young daughters, Lee and Lynn are stationed at an air base near London. The article that Lorena (Dunden) calls attention to is "With These Hands" and underneath the caption is a picture of the hands of the Archbishop of Canterbury who will crown Elizabeth as Queen on June 2.

The Archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, wears an Episcopal ring. This ring he must wear "perpetually" as a badge of his office. It is set with an egg-shaped amethyst and engraved with the arms of the See of Canterbury. There follows a complete play by play description of the coronation ceremony, a display of majestic and traditional oaths. The deep symbolism of each rite is explained. We are carried back to the days of knightly chivalry as the golden spurs are brought for the Queen to touch. We hope Lorena will catch a glimpse of some of the grandeur and splendor and pass it on to us.

Appearing elsewhere on the light-packed print was a street pole. Opinions were asked if a religious revival such as set forth by Dr. W. E. Sangster, former head of the country's Methodists in which he claimed that a revival would: 1. Pay old debts. 2. Reduce sexual immorality. 3. Clean up the theatre. 4. Reduce the divorce rate. 5. Reduce juvenile crime. 6. Lessen prison population. 7. Improve quality of work. 8. Restore nation's sense of high destiny. 9. Make us invincible in the war of ideas. 10. Give happiness and peace to the people.

The London Daily press reporters and cameramen found the views of the people were evenly divided.

One point emerged with startling clarity. Even those who said they never went to church, and who laughed at the idea of any nation wide revival agreed that they sent their children to Sunday School and would like to see all children have similar training.

I AM, as of now, asking that the news stand keep out a Collier's magazine, Jan. 30 for I am keenly interested in Ward Morehouse's illustrated article on the bear he brought from Thailand and is now a part of the animal kingdom on Mrs. H. V. Franklin's farm near Register.

As ever,
JANE.

Grand Jury Recommends County Build New Jail

The Bulloch County Grand Jury for the January Term, 1953 of the Superior Court which met this week, in its presentments, reports that, "our present jail quarters are inadequate, unsafe, unsanitary and really a disgrace to our county."

The presentments went on to report that the Grand Jury "feels it would be unwise to spend any money in repairing this out-of-date building and urgently request our commissioners to give immediate study towards construction of a new jail for Bulloch County."

The Grand Jury also reports that they find "conditions in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court extremely crowded, 'space is not adequate to handle the volume of business and we recommend that our commissioners give immediate study to providing some relief for this overcrowded condition, even if it is necessary to add to the floor space of the court house building."

It also recommends that proper public restroom facilities be provided for both white and negro citizens in the courthouses.

Mrs. Fred Hodges was commended for the "splendid manner in which she took over and handled the affairs of the county and the splendid condition in which the commissioner finds our county affairs."

The Grand Jury recommended that the salary of the Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners be increased $50 per month for an annual salary of $5,400.00, and that his clerk's salary be increased $50 per month for an annual salary of $2,100.00.

A. R. Lanier, who became the chairman of the Board of Commissioners on January 1, W. G. Groover, and Edgar Wynn were recommended for their plans for this year's operations.

The presentments in full are as follows:

"We, the Grand Jury, chosen and sworn to serve at this January Term of Bulloch Superior Court, after hearing our presentments: We recommend that W. C. Lanier, Jr. be reappointed for another term as Notary Public and Ex-Officio Justice of the Peace of the 12th District.

"We received the report of Miss Sarah Hall, covering the operations of our County Welfare Department and thank her for same.

"Mr. A. R. Lanier, becoming Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, discussed various matters pertaining to his office and we commend him and the other commissioners for plans covering the operations of the county's business. After listening to this report and studying the matter over, the Grand Jury, unanimously recommends that the salary of the Chairman of the Board be increased fifty ($50.00) per month so that his annual salary shall be $5,400.00 and this Clerk's salary be increased $50.00 per month so that her salary shall be $2,100.00 per year.

It is hereby requested that our representatives in the State Legislature, upon doing so, take immediate steps toward passing enabling legislation to accomplish this, during the current session of the legislature.

"We were requested by Judge Rentrone to inspect the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court and upon doing so, find conditions in the office extremely crowded. This space is not adequate to handle

The story in Colliers carries pictures of Mr. Morehouse playing with his bear, Missy Lanier and Nancy Riggs playing with Bankok at Olliff's drugstore in Register. He brought him by car from New York when he and Mrs. Morehouse, the former Ruth Rebecca Franklin, came to visit
